Who?

Where?

Why?
is up to you!

What?

When?

welcome to kathy schrock's page!

kathy schrock

home >>

about

presentations

workshops

books & articles

appearances

slide shows

support pages

resume

my blog

ed tech blogs

the schrockguide

site history

search

email me

Welcome to the online home of Kathy Schrock.

During the school year, I can be found at the Nauset Public Schools, where I am the Administrator for Technology. My role is maintain the computers and infrastructure, as well as train the teachers to utilize technology effectively to support teaching, learning, and their own professional development.

Outside of school, you can find me working on my Guide for Educators, which I started in 1995 in order to share my online resources with others. Hosted by Discovery Education since 1999, I continue to add resources to this portal daily.

In addition, I love anything new in the area of technology and am known as the "Gadget Queen" as I investigate and present on the ways these new technologies can help teachers and students. I am always posting information to my blog, speaking somewhere, Twittering, or in Second Life, telling everyone about my new discoveries!

This site will provide you with online versions of my past presentations, links to the Web sites supporting the presentations, information about my books, articles, and qualifications to write and speak about educational technology, as well as links to ed tech blogs, my Guide for Educators, and upcoming workshops.

Feel free to contact me with any quetions!

All text and images © 2003-2008 Kathleen Schrock — Last updated: 6/24/2008
kathy@kathyschrock.net

APA Reference:
Schrock, K. (2003, Jan. 1) Retrieved June 24, 2008, from Kathy Schrock's Home Page Web site: http://kathyschrock.net/.